THIS SATURDAY the church celebrates the life of Benedict of Nursia, Abbot of Monte Cassino, Father of Western Monasticism, Patron of Europe, c.550

Benedict was born in Nursia, in central Italy, around the year 480. As a young man he was sent to study in Rome, but appalled by the corruption in society, he withdrew to live as a hermit at Subiaco. He quickly attracted disciples and began to establish small monasteries in the neighbourhood. Around the year 525, a disaffected faction tried to poison him, so Benedict moved south to Monte Cassino with a band of monks loyal to him. Later in life Benedict wrote his "Rule for Monks", based on his own experience of fallible people striving to live out the gospel. He never intended to found an 'Order' as such, but his Rule proved to be so good and well-balanced that it was disseminated widely, becoming in time the model for all Western monasticism. Benedict died at Monte Cassino in about the year 550.
